

Summary

Are you looking for an opportunity to operate your own management consultancy business within a wider organisation that provides efficient back office systems, marketing collateral and peer support with experienced colleagues backing you in winning and executing successful client work?

About you

You may be an experienced senior business executive looking for a change in career. Alternatively, you may already be a management consultant, successfully working on your own and now seeking the benefits of teaming up with a larger enterprise.

Most importantly you enjoy working in a collaborative environment while helping clients resolve difficult challenges and realise their full potential.

You will add to our capability and capacity with your own skill set, experience, and strong business networks.

Who we are

EPRAKT is a growing consultancy firm that provides a unique customer proposition and great support to new and experienced Associates. We are a profitable business with a collaborative and supportive culture that helps both new and experienced consultants achieve their goals.
